What is one goal you have set for the future?

To help my kids become independent, caring, mindful and productive adults

If you could learn something new, what would it be?

A new language

If you had a whole day to do whatever you wanted, what would you do?

Play golf in the morning by myself, then take a long walk on the beach with my wife, then throw the football with my boys, and lastly, have a big meal together

What are some of your interests or hobbies?

Family, business, and golf

What are some adversities you faced in middle school or high school? (i.e. bullying, peer pressure, drugs, alcohol, etc.) How did you handle these adversities?

I was a poor kid but concealed it well, was popular, played a lot of sports and was always good enough to be at the top for most things I tried. I wish I stood up for kids that were being bullied in school, and also wish I had paid closer attention in school! Because I was pretty good at whatever I tried I didn't have to work very hard in school, and so I didn't work very hard in school...

If you could tell your younger self any piece of advice, what would it be and why?

I would remind myself to stay out of trouble, learn to slow down and savor the moments as they unfold, and be nice to my parents.
