What are some adversities you faced in middle school or high school? (i.e. bullying, peer pressure, drugs, alcohol, etc.) How did you handle these adversities?

I was blessed to have a Mom that loved me unconditionally however she was an alcoholic and married many times. This made it very difficult to have friends come to our house. I did not have many friends. I started working when I was 14 which opened doors for me. I had a wonderful boss that believed in me and gave me opportunities that I may not have had just staying home. It was a Christian Day Care and Ms. Martha taught me how to accept people for who they are and be kind to everyone. She was the best role model a girl could have asked for.

If you could tell your younger self any piece of advice, what would it be and why?

Be kind. This will solve a lot of issues or keep them from escalating.
Treat others with respect even if you do not think they deserve it.
People are wonderful....learn to appreciate and accept them. Try to do 2 good deeds everyday.
Take time to really appreciate life.

I have had many people in my life that believed in me and gave me opportunities to grow and learn. I want to pass this on to others. People need people...I have learned this throughout my life and appreciate it more and more every day.
